FROM FIELD TO TOWN

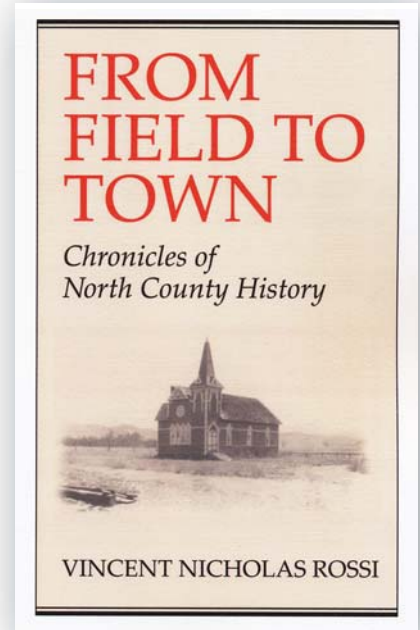

by Vincent Nicholas Rossi

StorySeekers announces the publication of From Field to Town: Chronicles of North County History. This book combines in one volume some of the local history articles written between 2004 and 2008 by Vincent Nicholas Rossi. The articles first appeared in the San Diego Union-Tribune's Sunday column, "The Way We Were."

The stories cover north San Diego County inland communities from Poway to Fallbrook, San Marcos to Warner Springs. Topics include lost landmarks such as the Escondido Tepee, pioneer families including the Mendenhalls, the McFerrals and the Odens, plus events such as the coming of Colorado River water to Poway.

"I received positive feedback from many readers when these articles first appeared," said Rossi. "There's obviously a lot of interest out there in local history, so I thought a compilation was a good idea."
